This application uses all of your computer's resources, so it will slow down your system. It is good for creating an easy way to keep important notes and information in one place. Example uses: Record your computer's hardware and operating system specifications, software version, and other details. Remember phone numbers and business addresses. Forget something you need to fill in on a web form? Keep a record of notes you need to reference later. You can also use it to automatically copy information that you type into your web browser. You can use it as an alternative to a sticky note holder if you want to. Create a dictionary with many words (such as thesaurus, glossary, etc). This is a freeware product. Main features: 1. View and edit clipboard contents from any Windows program. 2. Edit your clipboard with our convenient text editor. 3. Copy multiple items to the clipboard by pressing an assigned hotkey. 4. Edit the description or list view with the text search. 5. Use our text editor to directly edit the text on your clipboard. 6. Paste the clipboard contents in any program. 7. Paste multiple items as a single item with one copy command. 8. Use a text file, in.txt or.rtf format, to create a new memo. 9. Preserve the format of your original text and not lose any formatting. 10. Paste the text in any Windows program. 11. Control the maximum clipboard size. 12. Control the maximum number of items that can be copied to the clipboard. 13. Control the maximum size of the memo (files larger than 32 MB are not supported). 14. Now you can create your own hotkeys to work with right from the desktop. KEYMACRO is an application which creates virtual keyboard shortcuts for your computer and lets you assign functions to various key combinations. All you have to do is press the combination of keys that you want to assign a function to, and then you will be able to use that function whenever you want. It can also record your typing, and when you create a macro with an existing key combination you can quickly save any of your previous keyboard combination with a single click. You will also be able to edit each one of these functions and change the mapping to any other combination you want. KEYMACRO also lets you assign different functions to keys that you press at different times during the day, or to different hotkeys you press at different times during the day. KEYMACRO can be configured to work with both applications that use native Windows hotkeys (such as Notepad and Internet Explorer) and applications that use non-native hotkeys, such as Acrobat Reader and MS Word. You can set your hotkey to work in one or more programs simultaneously. For example, you can set the Page Down key combination to work with both notepad and Internet Explorer. To set your hotkeys, go to Tools > KEYMACRO > Preferences... and click on the Hotkeys tab. Then, you can set a list of Hotkeys (for different days), Macro commands or the set of programs that you want to work with. When you set a macro, the program will save that macro to the registry so that it can be saved with the program next time you start it. To create a macro, you just need to set the Hotkey you want to use and the function you want to assign to it. Simply press the hotkey that you want and then select the function you want to assign. KEYMACRO will remember the last key combination you assigned to a function and it will save the macro you created with that function for next time. To save the currently active macro, press the Ctrl+Alt+Shift+] keys together to bring up the Save As dialog box. Limitations: 30 day trial Keyboard Recorder Description: A hotkey to record any key combination that you want. KEYboard Recorder is a program that lets you record any key combination that you want. It is capable of recording any keys you are currently pressed, as well as all keystrokes since 77a5ca646e
