The day after you buy your car you'll have had your discs replaced by a dealer, they're the only ones who can update your navigation software (with the dealer's logo on it, but they can also replace it with a blank disc if you ask). Fortunately there's a workaround: in your car's settings there's a disc called "Car home". This disc stores your car's software version, it's not updated by the dealer, but is updated by you (eg. after you replace a CD-RW with a blank one). Just copy that disc to your desktop and edit the properties so that it looks like a CD disc, and then you can transfer it to your car. If you want to transfer it to another car, just use the software "Car home" (not the disc) and you should be good to go.
