It should not match the following: D123 67/87 Here is my regex so far: ^[0-9a-zA-Z]$ I'm not sure how to make it so it returns true if the user enters a match, but also returns false if there is no match. A: Try this: /^[a-zA-Z0-9]$/ This says to match at least one character from the set of alphanumerics, and zero or more. Model aircraft enthusiasts often build model airplanes that are capable of maneuvering like conventional airplanes. For example, model airplanes may include ailerons that may be manually operated by a pilot to steer the model airplane. Some model aircraft enthusiasts prefer to build model aircraft that are capable of maneuvering like unmanned aerial vehicles, such as quadrotor or multicopter aircraft. The maneuvering of such model aircraft often uses electric motors and/or airframes that are not proportioned for human pilots. For example, conventional electric motors are not designed to provide adequate thrust or lift at low motor speeds and may induce oscillation or vibration in the airframe that would disturb an on-board pilot. Accordingly, there is a need for model aircraft that are capable of
