Key Macro is a program that enables the user to change the contrast, brightness, brightness, hue and saturation of an image. The interface has a main window with the ability to adjust different parameters of the picture. It can be used for any image format like JPEG, BMP, GIF, TIFF, PCX, PNG or TGA.

KEYMACRO's program is easy to handle, as the interface is very easy to navigate through. The tool's main window includes all the options, which are displayed in the format of three tabs. In the first tab, you may change contrast, saturation, brightness, and in the second, the brightness, hue, and the saturation can be adjusted. In the last tab, the image may be zoomed to get a better view of the selected areas. The program is able to work on multiple images at once, which can be useful, especially if you have a folder full of pictures. The last tab includes the option to generate an HTML file, with the data from the image.

This may be useful if you want to upload the image to an image-based social network, like Facebook, because the HTML file can include all the data from the image, such as its name, rating, number of likes, etc. KEYMACRO has a very simple interface, which may be an advantage for those less experienced.
