Change Info Flip-Flopper is an incredibly useful tool when it comes to flipping images. It allows you to change images in a lot of different ways, such as flip, flop, mirror, rotate, etc. Most of the available options can be easily accessed from a central dialog that pops up when you click on the desired image. Flipping and mirroring images is a piece of cake with Flip-Flopper, while its rotation option can take some getting used to. Unfortunately, the application has some limitations, namely the support for only JPEG, BMP, and GIF images. Not only that, but its saving feature requires you to start all the way from a base image. I'm using Castle Dynamic Proxy and I'm creating a proxy factory that looks like this: IProxyFactory proxyFactory = new ProxyFactory(typeof(MyClass)) .InterceptedMemberTypes(typeof(IMyInterface).GetInterfaces()).IgnoreMembers().ApplyInterfaces(typeof(IMyInterface)); I don't have a default constructor on my entity, so this should give me my IMyInterface proxy. I need to add a property to my entity class, but I can't see the PropertyInfo for it. How can I find the PropertyInfo I need? I can see GetInterfaces() will get me the properties and methods of MyClass. A: You can use Reflector or ILSpy to see the signature of a type and then do the work manually or more automatically using reflection. If you are just after the property information, I would suggest using the API rather than the magic of the source. A: This should do the job: PropertyInfo info = typeof(MyClass).GetProperty("MyPropertyName"); Now you can add this information to your proxy factory.
