To get the best performance for the application, the users should enable the Hardware Acceleration for video and Sound Devices. Installation: Unpack the archive into a desired directory. Execute the application. Is completely stock 11.10 Oneiric. Not another Theme. Just plain Black Hole. Or is it? Installation: 1. Download the file. 2. Open terminal, and type: cd Downloads 3. Open terminal, and type: sudo dpkg -i eclipse-sdk_2.0.1-20110916-linux-gtk-java-gtk-master.deb 4. Open terminal, and type: sudo dpkg -i eclipse-kepler_3.6.2-0ubuntu3-4.8_i386.deb 5. Open terminal, and type: sudo dpkg -i eclipse-maven-helios-3.6.2-0ubuntu3-4.8_i386.deb 6. Close terminal. Why is it Black Hole? (I'm just reporting, not meaning to  at anyone) Hi everyone. I'm using Linux Mint 11 (Oneiric) and I just installed Gesture on it. It works perfectly, but I wanted to tweak everything so it look more nice, so I'm now tweaking some icons and changing some colours and styles. This all works great, but the problem is that when I go to "Preferences -> Tools -> Gestures " the buttons are missing. Am I doing something wrong? Thanks. Hi, I don't know if this is the right spot to ask this question but I need some help with this problem. I recently installed Bodhi Linux 3.0RC and I have to make a little change to it. I want to remove the locations like trash, network and places from the Places Menu. Where can I do that? Can you help me plz? Hello. I recently installed Ubuntu 10.04 and removed KDE(KDE 4.5) and gnome(gnome-3-2). After that when I turn off the computer and turn on it again, the desktop showed the desktop background image (a white square/circle with a picture of a digital clock) when the computer
