Learn more about using and mastering AutoCAD in this free AutoCAD tutorial. What is AutoCAD? AutoCAD is a computer-aided design and drafting (CAD) software program that is used to create and modify 2D and 3D drawings. Like other CAD applications, AutoCAD facilitates the creation, modification, and collaboration between multiple team members working simultaneously on the same file. AutoCAD is typically used by architects, engineers, and other professionals who need to design and create detailed drawings of 2D and 3D models. A drawing consists of a series of layers, which is a virtual means of organizing the objects on the drawing canvas. Each layer represents a set of objects at the specified level of detail, depth, or accuracy. Layers are typically named with the name of the object being shown and a number that indicates its position in the drawing. These layers are stacked on top of each other in the drawing canvas to create the overall drawing, which is the final design. This page will provide you with the answers to the most commonly asked AutoCAD questions. What is AutoCAD? AutoCAD is a CAD software program that is used to create and modify 2D and 3D drawings. Laparoscopic partial nephrectomy for small renal masses in patients with a high risk for undergoing open surgery: a single-center study. To assess the feasibility and perioperative outcomes of laparoscopic partial nephrectomy (LPN) for patients at a high risk of undergoing open surgery. We retrospectively reviewed a database of 189 patients who underwent LPN for renal tumors from 2004 to 2008. Clinical records of patients with a risk for undergoing open surgery and who underwent LPN were analyzed. Of the patients with a high risk for undergoing open surgery, 40 patients (age range: 45-72 years; mean age: 57 years) underwent LPN for renal tumors. Tumor size ranged from 2.3 to 6.5 cm (mean size: 3.3 cm). No patient had a history of previous abdominal surgery. Mean estimated blood loss was 215 mL. Postoperative complications occurred in 4 patients (10%). Tumor-positive surgical margin was found in 2 patients (5%). Median follow-up period was 34 months. Cancer recurrence was found in 3 patients (7.5%). LPN can be a feasible alternative option for patients with a high risk for undergoing open surgery for renal masses with perioperative outcomes similar to those of patients with a low risk.

Call For Abstracts New Hampshire Transcendentalists Association (NHTSA) seeks to celebrate and honor its members, as well as those of other organizations, on its 30th anniversary of its first meeting. NHTSA strives to advance the development and growth of this important and vibrant association, as well as to foster cooperation among its members and other transcendentalist societies. To further the interests and goals of transcendentalism, NHTSA will sponsor an annual conference. The 15th annual conference will be held at the Atkinson Center for a Modern Vermont in May, 2018. An associated workshop is also planned, focused on the life, works, and writings of A.A. Brooks.
