What's new in Crazy Derby Racing:

Kit By tavisn Watch 94 Favourites 16 Comments 5K Views This is the User Interface Material Kit for the upcoming RPG Maker MV, Project M. (This kit will be available for download in the user interface preview site. Once available, it will be released as a separate file.) This is a preliminary version of the UI Kit at this time. It is all in very early development but there is a pretty basic frame set in here. Some things you will need to figure out. In the demo, there are some controls that need work: drop down menus, tabbing, inputs, and the UI; there are some other things I will also cover in more detail such as the renderer. The main learning is just how to use the drawing tool, the control scheme, and the model editor. The renderer in this is also very basic, it just allows you to draw lines and surfaces and paint colors on them. It does not allow for custom brushes yet. The line should be a bit more opaque and the surfaces as well. The line editor supports guides and variations on the axis (x, y, and z). More colors will be added as the renderer matures. More textures will be added as well. More brushes will be added as well. Everything is a work in progress. How to use the renderer controls: Spacebar will toggle between grid or dragging mode T will cancel (to get rid of a drawing) Preview: To preview, once you've selected multiple layers with double left click (or Win), pick the "Resize and Reposition Layers" checkbox, and then drag back and forth on the grid to resize the layers, then drag up and down to move them relative to the grid. You can scrub to preview frames while you adjust the shape or color of the lines or other stuff. It is really based on older demos. Now that it is still in early development, you can see why I couldn't just copy/paste the same thing with different colors in this thread. So please, let's keep the comments focused and positive. And I will try to monitor the thread for more constructive suggestions. If you have been following the UI/UX talks at the event I'm at, I am adapting what I have seen for the Project M UI, but learning from some of the patterns

Fighter Creator is an easy to use, but extremely powerful platform that allows users to design their own fighters in order to create a truly unique experience. Build from scratch to create your fighters, stages, and game modes. A wide variety of items can be included in your fighters like Health, Special Attacks, Weapons, and even add game modes. Characters and stages are stored in Scene Files, allowing for easy copying and pasting to other projects. You can even easily share your creations with the community. Fights are represented graphically by hitting blocks that are destroyed when hit. STEPS TO BUILD YOUR FIGHTERS AND GAME MODE Create an Arena by adding Music and Character Environments to the stage editor and letting the script system generate titles for your stages. Once your creations are set up go to the other menus and customize the project to suit your needs. Now that your arena is ready you can create your fighters by dragging and dropping your sprites into the character editor and adding special abilities and weapons. Once your fighters have been built save and adjust them as you see fit to help you define your gameplay. Now that you have all of the required pieces you can set it up to test out your fighting game by starting it up and creating the different game modes, now all that is left to do is watch the scene play out.
