We are about to start the new action game "The Elden Ring" (5pb.at: The Elden Ring, Elden Ring). The fantasy action RPG released in Japan in 2016 will be released in Korea in October, 2018. A City of Great Attraction An event of unprecedented size where a meteorite called "The Stone" fell down, a great chaos began, and people have been seeking for answers. The Era of the Monsters has begun. A world that became disconnected after the stone fell began to be ruled by chaos. The world in front of you is fighting for power, and the laws are being violated. At the same time, a battle for "survival" is taking place between the monsters (spirits) and humanity. Moreover, monsters and humans have been being revived from the world's ruins by a fairy called Ailora. Seventy-six years have passed since the beginning of the Era of the Monsters. The fallen world is being revived. The civilization of the world has split into factions. The seven-layered worldview of the gods, the Zero, the Order, the Chaos, the Divines, and the Neutral are all in state of equilibrium. —A world has fallen apart! Featured Character: A "Seeker of Lost Soul" that seeks the truth of the lost civilization. A "Monk of the Left" that possess the power of the Zero. A "Demon of Lust" that possesses the power of the Order. A "Hero of Friendship" that protects and defends the weak. A "Demon of Religion" that possesses the power of the Divines. A "King of Ambition" that commands the dragon palace. Assemble a unique party of adventurers from all 7 factions, and with the help of Ailora, seek out the truth. Events The so-called "South-East region" is a perfect example of the world's struggle for power. During the Era of the Monsters, people who possessed the power of the "Zero", "Order", "Chaos", "Divines", and "Neutral" began to exist. Staying in the same place, a

Q: Filtering form values so that they can only be between two numbers I would like to make a form that is only able to have values between 0 and 5. I have the following form: import Tkinter as tk root = tk.Tk() var=tk.StringVar(root) koordinaten=tk.StringVar(root) choosen = tk.StringVar(root) koordinaten.set(5) choosen.set(5) dek = tk.Entry(root,textvariable=koordinaten) dek.grid(column=1, row=1) buton = tk.Button(root,text='Select',width=20,command=lambda:function(word,var,variable): var.set(var)) buton.grid(column=2, row=1) The function (which is not the problem) gets the text from the entry and the called variable and assigns it to the variable. A: There is a Tkinter input widget for this. Basically, you can restrict it to integers with decimal points, and the maximum value can also be specified. 46 F.
