Is there a way to find out if my app is in beta or not without logging in? A: Update: 2019: You can check the "launch type" of your web app under App Service tab in Azure portal as showed in screenshot below: To check it, we need log in Azure portal. In my opinion, the app service should not be registered in beta until it reach to stable. Ref: Check Application type in the App Service blade Old Answer: At present, it is very difficult to get a status information whether your web app is still in Beta for it because we can not check the web app status information directly in VS2017. According to the document, we can find the web app status information in Azure portal. For example, as the screenshot below showed: To check it, we need log in Azure portal. In my opinion, the app service should not be registered in beta until it reach to stable. Solution: Assuming the web app ID is myapp.azurewebsites.net, you can get the status information of your web app by these methods: Method 1: Get the status info by PowerShell. Please add "azuread:TenantID" line in your PowerShell cmdlet, which means the user of current account To check it, PowerShell command is like below: Connect-AzAccount Get-AzureRmWebApp -ResourceGroupName webappgroup -Name "myapp" | ft ObjectType, TenantId, Status -AutoSize Method 2: Get the status info by Azure CLI First, open Azure CLI and login Azure Portal with the same Azure account. Q: Trigger function on DOM ready Here's the scenario: 1) At the start of the document loading, I need to set some markers on a google map. 2) As the map loads, I need to iterate through a bunch of events and create markers that will let users click on them to stop the marker. In my mind, the way to accomplish this would be to write a function which is triggered upon DOM ready, and which iterates through events, but I don't know how this is really done in vb.net. A: To cover all ways to your question: Private Function createMarker(ByVal lng As Double, ByVal lat As Double, Optional ByVal icon As String = "", Optional ByVal title As String = "") As CustomMarkerLocation Dim marker As New CustomMarkerLocation marker.Latitude = lng marker.Longitude = lat marker.Icon = "... " marker.Title = title Return marker End Function I call this from the click event like this. The code above needs some more polishing but it should work. Dim marker As New CustomMarkerLocation() Dim position As New Vector(_ My.Resources.Map.MapWidth, _ My.Resources.Map.MapHeight) With position .Position.X = CInt(.LogicalToGeographic(Math.Round(lat, 2)) * My.Resources.Map.MapWidth)
