Former Eagles WR DeSean Jackson is reported to have been shown the door in Philly. The move makes a lot of sense. He's still young. He's still very talented. The trade might even benefit both sides. Jackson is due to make $10.5M in 2017. Given the Eagles' cap situation, they need to cut all the dead weight. Jackson's contract is awful. But his talent is not. Even the trade rumors that suggested he would be traded didn't do much to keep him in the spotlight. Jackson is second in the NFL with his 15.0 yards per reception this season. But he's not one of the best players in the league. Ryan Mathews' 2017 season has been a revelation. He has shown that the Eagles couldn't
