In three dimensions, however, it may not be possible to adjust the document or data set in two dimensions, but it may be possible to move the document or data set through three dimensions by physically displacing the user's hands and the data display screen. The user, however, must continually monitor the directions in which the document or data set is being moved through three dimensions. The arrangement of controls and user interface screen elements on the display screen is important. In some situations the controls and user interface elements cannot be easily shifted around. In other situations, however, shifting the controls and user interface elements may be desirable.Q: AngularJS Upload fails on IE I have a basic image upload form with a file input, I'm using the angular-file upload plugin to handle the upload. recession. The company, which processes around a third of the American wheat harvest and exports its products to as many as 100 countries, said it expects to have a third or more of its earnings cut from the current level in 2009. "There is a very high probability that we will be in recession by the end of this year," White Lily president and CEO Leanne Brown said. The warning comes as Wall Street stocks have plummeted on the fear of a credit crunch and the likelihood of a double-dip recession, which many economists say could last into 2010 and beyond. The domestic market has been shaken by the cost of flour hitting a new high of $1.80 a bushel in Minneapolis, and rising fears of a worldwide shortage following a drought in Australia that has hit production. The drought has led to a 20 per cent cut in Australian corn exports and threatened to cut wheat shipments. The U.S. has the world's largest corn harvest, and there is a worldwide grain glut after Europe's worst winter since the 1950s, further complicating a global supply crisis. Fearing a loss of momentum for the U.S. economy, Brown said the White Lily-related losses in operating earnings could be $40 million to $50 million. And that's not the company's only potential problem. White Lily, the sixth-largest flour processor in North America, is expecting to cut 12,000 jobs over the next few years as it pulls back to focus on the domestic market.

Brown also said the company is having to hit harder
