Ages ago, there was an empire that stood in eternal majesty. They spawned champions to protect the lands, and gunners to plow the battlefields. But it all came to a halt with the rise of the Forgotten. For centuries the Giant Pokemon thrived, their powerful might helping them to dominate their counterparts. But then the gods of wisdom and fate would not be denied, and the scale tipped for the battle of man versus Giant.

_____ PS:It's the second part of the series. You should watch the first part here: Black and White hidden object game:The red dragon is up, but first, he has to eat some ants. That's a job for the grey dragon, the green fairy, and the small white flying thing. The purple squirrel is quite impatient for the grey dragon to finish his lunch. The small green leafy thing, with big ears, does not seem happy at all. The grey dragon walks a little bit closer to the purple squirrel, and the leaves get smaller. The leafy thing goes mad. Its eyes are filled with anger, and its ears are now twice their size. The grey dragon knows that the leafy thing will use his powerful antigravity ability. So he jumps into the air and turns to see the purple squirrel. The leafy thing's plan has failed. There's not enough space for him, and he misses the grey dragon. The grey dragon finishes his ant meal, and goes to the green fairy, and the small white flying thing, and their ant-eating antics are over. The purple squirrel takes the best option, the big opportunity to eat as many ants as he can, and chase them all away. The grey dragon is happy to see the purple squirrel eating ants, but the leafy thing does not like that, and runs towards the grey dragon. The grey dragon tries to fly, but he's a little bit bigger than the small white flying thing. He has to let the purple squirrel finish his meal, and fly away from the ant cloud. The grey dragon closes his eyes, and uses his second ability, antigravity. The grey dragon, the green fairy, and the small white flying thing are able to move freely. The grey dragon flies, the green fairy flies, and the small white flying thing can fly as well. The grey dragon opens his eyes, and sees the leafy thing flying towards him. He's not really hungry now, but he has to finish the ant cloud. He jumps on the leafy thing, and drags him in the ant cloud. The ant cloud is eating up the leaves on the green fairy's back. The purple squirrel is about to finish his meal, but the ant cloud has arrived. The grey dragon, the green fairy, and the small white flying

What's new in IRFaceRig Cyborg Baron:

for the Titans: R.I.P. 4-2 Cardiff Blues While the dodgy weather meant that the crowd were coping with a lack of atmosphere at the Arms Park, the play on the field between the home and visitors Welsh teams was particularly scrappy and ragged. Rumour had it that the game would be a critical game in which, in theory, the hosts needed to win to keep up the pressure on Munster at the top of the league, and Cardiff benefited from the inaccuracies of two refs on a difficult day that had the potential to be decisive. Cardiff started well with the aggressive defence of the visitors leading to quick scrums, with Cardiff's Ospreys debutant Justin Tipuric putting in a good body tackle in front of Roko Reed's stand-in. After a horrible offside decision led to a Cardiff scrum that gained momentum while the Welshman was out of the sin bin, Cardiff's 'Big Three' of Adam Jones, James Hook and Alun Wyn Jones joined forces. The scrum was tight in amongst themselves and eventually Jones ran Wales-vers-the-world to get his men on the back foot as a Cardiff scrum finally came. Of course, when Welshmen get onto the back foot, you know a Welshman is on his way to scoring a try. Alun Wyn Jones going for another penalty and that goal from hook coming in the third minute. The noise was almost deafening in the packed Arms Park and the supporters chanted 'We Want Wales' and 'Wales, Wales, Wales'. The Welshmen could've been forgiven for not finding the front foot so early as the Cardiff defence was working 'menage a trois' with match-ups of Wyn Jones, Matt Stevens and Adam Jones, and Roko Reed, already coming to the front, having been starved of possession in the first half. As it turns out, both teams would get a chance to attack the Cardiff backline on their own two feet and when Cardiff pushed forward, for the fourth time in the match, Wales picked off the ball and looped it to their scrum. Leading Cardiff to its first timeout after less than three minutes. While all the pre-match talk had been about Welsh centre Alun Wyn Jones, his Welsh colleague, Dan Lydiate had been outstanding at
