What's new in Jungle Town: Birthday Quest:

"Err in the letter? Maybe it's time to raise your fears? It's a slow day. We do have forms of communication that would be pretty effective;....Dittos. -yEven the uber cool feely face is made of fear. And from the time when Napoleon was a child, fear is somehow intimated. Everybody can see what's up the nose of the child. Who knows for what reason so many adroit people are afraid of cats? No idea. -h. "So the letter said 'Err in the Letter'." "Err in the Letter"! How appropriate name. Isn't it an error in the sense that he felt so bored with his life that he wrote something so pathetic. If somebody asked me what is my idea of fear it would be that if we cumulate all our fears we will end with nothing, no you can't fail. Remember when we were kids we put a fist on our stomachs and closed our eyes tight waiting for something and everyone cried out that its coming out, so if you can't ease up look for an alternative. "Maybe it's time to raise your fears?" -S.S. Shrewdness again! "It's a slow day. We do have forms of communication that would be pretty effective;...."-S.S. Anon: "The fear of stepping into the road and getting a death blow is great. The fear of illness is great, and also of getting the disease is great, but the knowledge of the disease is the worst fear." Fear of the unknown! And what is the best medium for communication? "Who knows for what reason so many adroit people are afraid of cats? No idea." -S.S. The adult dog protection! So this is the old "don't eat dog/cats" rule etc. That is why dogs don't have tails. Dogs can be pet, coz they're like children, but once they become big and have grown hair, they can be tough and can hurt you. S.S.- Sorry I wasn't talking to you! If there was a person in the cold shoulder in the middle of the afternoon, he was walking along the

Macrophagic myofasciitis following pemphigus vulgaris treatment.
The authors report a case of macrophagic myofasciitis associated with pemphigus vulgaris. A 37-year-old woman presented with a 4-year history of a slowly progressive, hemi-shoulder pain and 2 months of a general fatigue. The serological study revealed two antinuclear antibodies (1/100), an anti-chromatin antibody (290/1000), an anti-centromere antibody (160/1000), and a Pemphigus vulgaris IgG antibodies (index >1/1000). A skin biopsy revealed intra-epidermal blisters. The biopsy of the posterior cervical muscle was nondiagnostic; specific stains or muscle biopsy could not be performed because the patient had received corticosteroids and immunosuppressors. The patient was treated with a third disease-modifying antirheumatic drug (DMARD) (methotrexate) with only partial symptomatic relief. She also had a treatment-related reaction. Macrophagic myofasciitis is characterized by an asthenia that is slowly progressive and tends to be associated with the use of biologic DMARDs. This report illustrates an association between this form of myositis and the use of rheumatic treatments.
