If you've never heard of AutoCAD, AutoCAD is a computer-aided design (CAD) software program that allows users to build 3D models, graphic images, and drafting-related documents. However, AutoCAD is more than just a CAD program: it can be used for industrial automation, engineering, technical drawing, technical design, and computer-aided design (CAD). The most used version of AutoCAD in 2018 is AutoCAD LT 2019. AutoCAD LT can be purchased as a stand-alone program (as opposed to AutoCAD, which needs to be purchased with a computer system) or as part of a total AutoCAD solution. If you're considering a new or used software license, you can also consider a yearly subscription for AutoCAD instead of purchasing the software at a one-time price. Over a quarter of UK women have no desire to have children in their 40s Every decade tends to change the stereotypes of society. From the work-life balance myth in the 80s, to the time crunch on the 90s, and the meteoric rise in the importance of work-life balance on the 00s. Now comes the 'me' decade. Throughout the last 50 years, the number of women reaching menopause has risen significantly. Today, the age of menopause for women in the UK is 51, an increase of 9 years since the 1960s. By the middle of the next decade, it is estimated that a quarter of the UK's female population will have no desire to have children at all. Men are not immune to this change either. A quarter of men (and one in six of the male population) will not have children in their 40s. Age differences and the future of fertility The number of women in their 40s in the UK is expected to increase by 80 per cent from 1970 to 2060. As the number of women in their 40s increases, it is likely that the number of women of childbearing age will start to decrease.
