UltraGoodness 2 features original score by Jesse Frech (on violin).

Oscar-winning composer Mychael Danna, has composed the score to the game on a wide range of instruments, from the violin, cello, clarinet, trombone, trumpet, piano, saxophone, organ, guitar, to the harp, marimba, percussion, synthesizers, synth bass, and string instrument. The music incorporates pop and rock styles.

"The story of UltraGoodness 2 is a science and technology fiction mythos that employs game mechanics to reflect social and political issues in a manner that entertains players. The musical score was created with a minimalist approach, that caters to the core game mechanics and is both fun to listen to and is perfectly balanced against the themes in the game. It provided great tension for the story and the interactions in the game."- Mychael Danna, Olympic medal winner for Wind Ensemble

"I worked with MXE to translate the game soundtrack into a playable score. I struggled to create an arrangement that was driven by the rhythm of the game's graphics. A score that is truly the work of one composer is magic. I am thrilled with the result. MXE is the best magic there is. X" - Mychael Danna, Olympic medal winner for Wind Ensemble

"Invisible Sorcery was the first game in my PhD research and I have always enjoyed playing it with strangers via low bandwidth internet; I assumed the same thing would happen with UltraGoodness, but it didn't. I decided to compile a list of games for friends, family and my gaming group. They immediately responded with how much they wanted to play. Emails flew back and forth for several months until finally we bought the game in a time of economic crisis." - Greg Hazel, Electronic Musician magazine editor-in-chief

Description Thanks for your comment! I am really glad that you enjoyed my song "Delicious", as I do (as I enjoyed making it), and I'm also glad that the song appears to have touched you in the direction of making an interesting'secret' movie, for which I am really happy - look forward to hearing the edited version that you will do with the video. Yours sincerely,Chris Unfortunately, I did not have the opportunity to enjoy the wild session where I recorded the song / film "Wingless and Glowing" (nor thanks to the usual internet glitches that occur when you give your contact information online), seeing that I simply could not make myself check it out. Next production: well, probably "Dancing Under the Full Moon", and perhaps "Open For Business" (first choice).
