A: This seems to be a problem with the way some elements of the page are floated. When you hover over any of the options it re-orders the elements around such that the "cancel" button is above the form; when you don't hover over any of the buttons it re-orders back to how the page is displayed above. This is because, for some reason, the form re-orders itself on hover in a way that's not consistent with the rest of the page. In order to get it to display as it should you need to give the form no float and then explicitly set it to float: right which will then let it display in what is effectively the correct position. This isn't really ideal of course, if I had my way you would just have to set a rule which would make sure it always stayed floated on the right. O: Error while validating integer value in web3js: TransactionInitiate for contract fails I'm trying to create a simple contract and then add an event listener. The event should be triggered when value is transferred from a specified account. I'm using web3js version 1.0.0-beta.3 in my browser. My problem is that I get the following error message: "Error while validating integer value for payload field arg[3]. Expected to find function.transferWithAdress(_int32,address)" My code: contract.deployed=function(transactionHash, gasPrice, gasLimit) { console.log("Deploying event listener "+transactionHash); var foo; contract.setGeth = function() { var myWeb3 = new Web3(""); myWeb3.eth.getNetworkInformation().then(function(result) { console.log(result); console.log("My network: " + JSON.stringify(result)); console.log("Current account:"+web3.eth.getAccounts()); }); }; var hash = web3.eth.getTransactionCount(contract.address,gasPrice,gasLimit); console.log("Creating event listener "+hash); // Add event listener for transferWithAdress console.log("Add event

History The airfield at the eastern edge of the village of Meslit is adjacent to the A1 and the Scottish border and was built by No. 6 Operational Training Unit RAF based at Lavenham. The airfield was operational from 1942 until it was closed in March 1945. All the buildings and perimeter fencing were removed between 2011 and 2013. During its active life it was used for the training of bomber crews and aircraft like the Halifax, Lancasters and Flying Fortresses of the RAF. During the Second World War it also housed three USAAF bombing units. Stamps In September 2019 the Royal Mail issued a set of four stamps in a set commemorating RAF Meslite, being a possible Luftwaffe target during the Second World War, and an air raid shelter in the centre of the village.
