Your decision affects the course of history! In the 21st century, the human species has been fighting an extinction war for years. As the global ecocide was increasingly difficult to control, the majority of mankind has decided to remove themselves from the planet. Humanity is now left with no choice, but to decide its fate: die or survive. After the war, our hero and the protagonist of the whole legend, has survived, and is trapped in a ship that has been through a time warp. From there he has to find a way back to the past... The Game is developed with engines: Unity3D / Unreal 4. The Player is forced to play in first-person perspective, and can only be seen by the player as a short cut of his face. The game was developed with educational purposes in mind, and will be used as a template for the Master Thesis of college level Computer Science, where I'm currently enrolled. For this reason, the design will not be overthought. If you are not interested in learning, you should probably not play it. If you play it, you can expect generally the following things: - Visual clutter, lots of bad design and missed features. - Lots of bugs and general crashes. - What I believe to be the best use of Unreal Engine, in regards to development time. - Easy to understand tutorials, providing you just enough help to get you started. - The Game is designed to be played for gameplay, not for storyline progress. If you can't follow it, then stop reading, because this is not a story game. - The Game is made of three "Acts" (named H1, H2, H3), which have a total of 15 Levels. If you get stuck anywhere, feel free to use our Game Hub! The Game is available in Early Access, which means that it is not finished, and there will be much more added to the game, and is constantly being developed. To track our progress you can follow our Twitter account (for announcements). The game now has a following Twitch channel (that is dedicated to live-streaming some parts of the game. You can find our roadmap at Hey everyone! Today I decided to release the first build of the upcoming 'Sundown Rising' sequel.
