When the install is complete you can just select the language (UTF-8) and the keyboard and other preferences. All the other options, like regional format and regional display are already predefined by default. Oh, and if you have Office installed in another language, you can go to the Options->General tab and then choose the other language. Once the install is complete, you are ready to go. Optional, but recommended is that you install the Microsoft Office 2016 Language Pack as well. This contains dictionaries, spelling suggestions, tools to work with dates, currency, numbers and so on. Installing and running Microsoft Office 2016 requires Windows Update. On a Windows system, the latest update version should be 5.2 or later. 6d1f23a050
