Speaking to CNN's Dana Bash and Don Lemon on "CNN Tonight," Ryan said she was caught in the White House hallways by security guards earlier this week after she confronted Trump about his tweet directed at Brzezinski, which was in response to comments

she made at a dinner she hosted last week. “The one incident where they actually started calling me into the administration was when they banned me from the White House,” she said. “Now, not because of what I said to Donald Trump — nothing that I said in any way did he ban me from the White House for.” “What I said to him was I was called into the White House because of how I was calling him out for defending Kellyanne Conway in the tweets that she posted,” she continued. “It was that where I said that I was called into the White House because of how I said Kellyanne Conway. I said that I was called into the White House because of how I said Kellyanne Conway. I was called into the White House because of that.” At a July 16 interview with Brzezinski and chief White House correspondent John Heilemann on the “Morning Joe” program, Brzezinski was critical of Conway for tweeting  6d1f23a050
