This was not the only technique applied by Rabindranath; he helped in setting up a literary magazine, Ramakriya, where authors were encouraged to use words and images of present day India in their writings. The meeting hall of this publication was called Shilpachara Bhavan, which is still operating in Kolkata. Under the guidance of Rabindranath, many eminent contemporary authors also started writing with his style and there began a revolution in the Bengali language - the birth of modern literature. It was only through the vision of Rabindranath that the writers of modern Bengal were able to emerge. Shilpachara Academy in Kolkata was also set up by him to help the young writers. Rabindranath's two major biographers, Homen Borgohain and Elanga Abeysekera, give the following account of the famous Kala Mancha conclave of 1921: The idea for the Kala Mancha was born in the shilpachara bhavan shramota (or meeting hall of the poets) in the Writers Building in January 1921 when Abanindranath had recently left it. Rabindranath proposed the idea of building a permanent Kala Mancha conclave. Rabindranath and Abanindranath discussed the need of a place where writers from different fields could meet on a regular basis. Abanindranath explained the need of the idea to Rabindranath. Rabindranath immediately agreed, and he proposed that such a place should be established at his residence at Santiniketan. The initial deliberations in this regard were held at the residence of Rabindranath, at 3 kobra kheti road, Barasat on 6th of February 1921. Rabindranath gave a stirring speech at this conclave and invoked the memory of Sukanta Roy in support of the idea of a Kala Mancha. Rabindranath was the general secretary of the Kala Mancha. He was also the chairman of the Aghani Circle, and a member of the executive committee of the Indian National Congress. Rabindranath was a prolific writer of essays, poems, novels and short stories. He was also an accomplished academic, theater director, composer of songs, playwright, librettist, dramatist, critic and a man of culture. 5ec8ef588b
