by august 2011, hall was working on a new project, a spiritual successor to perplex city. the new game, perplex city: the dream endures, had a similar concept and looked at the way the online landscape had changed. hall felt disillusioned. something had gone wrong, and she was looking for answers. she started telling people at work about the game, and one of them suggested it was a good idea for her to get some form of therapy. a career counsellor was impressed. hall started spending more time at her therapist's office and, eventually, it became obvious that the thing she was seeking was not an answer, but a question. this was the beginning of her journey. i am not sure what it was i was trying to answer, she says. i think i just wanted to know, as a creative artist, how it feels to do something that is completely antithetical to the way you feel like you ought to be living. you start to ask questions like, why am i doing this? am i even really doing this? and, i have to say, i was quite scared to find the answers. one summer night in 2013, hall was lying in bed wondering what to write next when she received a call from the agent who was representing perplex city. it was the result of a radio-advert campaign designed to attract more players to the game. for the first time, there was a suspicion that satoshi nakamoto might be real. hall says she hung up quickly and made a cup of tea. the next day, she sat down with her counsellor and told him what she had heard. the counsellor said that she was too close to the game to make such a decision, and perhaps it was best to let it go. maybe, he said, it was a coincidence.

New Terror Zones periodically allow players to venture into areas of the game. As in the case of the new Dungeons system, there are daily and weekly challenges. When you complete a daily challenge, you will receive a reward in the form of a piece of unique gear or a currency to be spent on items at the stores. Completing a weekly challenge unlocks special in-game weekly items that can be used to upgrade gear and items found within the game. In addition to that, players can receive in-game currency to be spent on increasing the level of their characters. The levels of Pandora are determined by players within the game and are based on their overall experience level and the number of planets they have visited. For example, a level 15 is a player who has fought and defeated the Dragon of Treachery in the Ancient City, a level 20 is a level player who has fought and defeated the Dragon in the Ancient City (Ultima times two). Players will receive in-game currency for visiting an act of terror on a moon or planet. There is a maximum of 40 planets that can be explored and you will only be awarded when visiting each planet of that moon. The level of monsters is based on a variety of factors. These include the monsters level and a few other settings. For example, the higher the item drop chance, the easier the monsters will be to defeat. Over time, the difficulty of monsters will increase based on the number of planets visited. Players are encouraged to complete the daily challenges and to explore every planet of a moon to help progress through the levels and become eligible for the weekly challenges. 5ec8ef588b
