I was originally going to call out for help and ended up copying over the files myself. How do I flash the voodoo v3 type bios file that I get when I.Q: Minimize the difference $d(x,y)$ under the constrain $f(x,y,z)=0$. Given three points x, y, z in \mathbb{R}^3 , we can define a distance $d(x,y)$ where $d(x,y)=\sqrt{\sum_{i=1}^3(x_i-y_i)^2}$. Now, we can consider the problem of minimizing $d(x,y)$ when constrain $f(x,y,z)=0$. Question: Is it true that $d(x,y)\geq d(x',y')$ if $f(x',y',z)\geq f(x,y,z)$ and $f(x,y,z)=0$? Pseudo-proof: $f(x$
