Full torrent client featuring a web interface, torrents, magnet links and trackerless torrents. Supports metadata search, rss feeds, torrent webui, torrent downloader and torrent duplicator. Requires: .Net Framework 4.5 or greater Description: If you regularly use the trackerless torrents, it's good to take care of them so that the torrents they download and those which they share with other users won't get corrupted. Trackerless torrents are the typical way of sharing files using the BitTorrent protocol. These torrents are mainly found on the Pirate Bay and other sites, and they can contain more than 100 tracks. This is not necessarily a bad thing, but it's important to note that these torrents do not have a tracker and it's the file-sharers who have to take care of them, since this can cause issues such as data corruption and download freezes. Trackerless torrents also come with certain extra, extra-permissive permissions, thus making them not suitable for end-users. That's why this application, TorrentGuard, is your best friend in these cases. When using TorrentGuard, you can share torrents using the trackerless protocol and this program will monitor them for you and protect them. It also allows you to manage your torrents and verify the data integrity. Trackerless torrents are the usual way of sharing files using the BitTorrent protocol. These torrents can contain more than 100 tracks. In the current state of affairs, the trackerless torrents are not as prevalent as they used to be. However, these torrents are still being used by some people and this can be problematic if you don't know how to handle them correctly. The best way of sharing these torrents is to use TorrentGuard. Using this program, you can manage all of your torrents in one place, verify the integrity of the data and share them with other users.
