Results show that obesity was associated with a significantly higher odds of depression among women. However, the relationship was null among men. Once we controlled for the potential mediators, obesity was not significantly associated with depression among either men or women. The causal effect of obesity on depression was not significant. Q: Scala Filter object array and print value I am a Java developer and new to Scala. I have an object "Set" and I want to filter it. Scala-way to filter object is to use filter(). When I run the filter object, I got ERROR. I tried to print the item that I got from filter but it only print [Set] but no value. Please help me. Thanks so much!

A: Use map for accessing the item associated with each Set instance ((s: Set) => s.item) map { case x if (x.equals("foo")) => x } filter { _.isInstanceOf[String] }) foreach { case x if (x.isInstanceOf[String]) => println(x.asInstanceOf[String]) } (x => if (x.equals("foo")) x else None) returns Some "foo" if "foo" is in x and None otherwise
