People are making mistake and giving wrong information. Don't get panic. If you are serious in your work then you can get the correct one from this list. A: It seems the crux of your problem is that you are not actually changing the file. It would be easier to change the file and then copy it back over. It seems you are using the D:\ drive of the drive that you are pulling this from. If so, then try and change the D:\ to something a little more befitting to your PC. Just because it works on yours don't assume that it will work on others. . Turok, Nucl. Phys. [B]{} (Proc. Suppl.) [41]{} (1995) 18. M. Grady, Phys. Rev. [D]{} (1997) 034030. J.
