I have to show all the data when I scroll down the table. I have 3 columns, now as far as I am informed, if there is more than 3 columns (which means more than 10 cells) then we have to scroll down the tableview. Is there any way to avoid scrolling down? is it possible to show all the data without scrolling? A: You can try this: tableView.scrollToRowAtIndexPath(indexPath, atScrollPosition: UITableViewScrollPosition.None, animated: true) This will scroll the tableView up to the given indexPath without animating. You can use this code to scroll only when you come to the end. Friday On this the day: Today in 1793:... Frenchman Louis-Claude Dufournet invents peanut butter. On this the day: Read the story: FRENCHMAN LAID CLAUSE Dufournet invents peanut butter In the 1930's, something remarkable happened in the United States. A young, ambitious French immigrant, Louis-Claude Dufournet, gained access to peanut butter and turned it into a success. He also created a name for himself; it was Peanut Butter. Louis-Claude Dufournet was born in 1836 and was a farmer and storekeeper in St. Louis, MO. It was there he experimented with grinding nuts, and experimenting with mixing peanuts and other nuts, mixing them with other ingredients and other nuts, much to the dismay of his customers. Louis-Claude brought his peanut butter mix to Gee Bee Foods Co. in 1908, where they made it into cracker mix. The cracker mix became a signature product and Gee Bee made peanut butter to go along with it. The first peanut butter that Louis-Claude made was called "Eat Right Butter." It was sold to be used by patients of Dr. John H. "Hobart" Smith. The Smith camp, who liked peanut butter, sampled it and said "By George, this works!" and that's when the name Peanut Butter was born
