Methylthiazol tetrazolium method (MTT assay) was applied to determine the viability of cells in different stages of the cell cycle. The results demonstrated that the method was simple, reproducible and could be used to distinguish the viability of cells at different stages of the cell cycle. The combination of MTT and propidium iodide has become a standard method to measure cell viability. MTT was found to be superior to fluorescein diacetate. Hence, MTT assay was used in this study to determine the cell viability of the cell cycle and to evaluate the effect of drugs on cell cycle. The results showed that MTT assay was efficient for use in the cell cycle.
